STAYING HEALTHY

ARE YOU ONE OF THE 80% OF PEOPLE

THAT ARE 'SUB HEALTHY'?

According to statistics from the World Health Organisation (WHO), only 5% of people are healthy, 80% of people are not in good health, and 15% of people are considered unhealthy. This means the large proportion of people are 'sub-healthy' i.e. a state between good health and illness, and it's a state that most people put up with without realising there's anything wrong.

Being in good health means being free from illness, with normal body functions and a positive frame of mind. But people exhibiting sub-healthy conditions, if left unchecked, are at risk of becoming sick or suffering more chronic complaints. Even though the sub-healthy condition is more common in people aged over 40, it is an issue of concern to people of all ages, from teenagers to adults.

The most common symptoms for sub-healthy people are reduced vitality, reduced responsiveness and reduced environmental adaptability. As health deteriorates, symptoms of reduced health can become chronic with frequent sore throats, intermittent flu, and lethargy being common symptoms. Sufferers could also exhibit high cholesterol, high blood sugar, high blood viscosity or low immunity.

It is a common problem and anyone can be reduced to a chronic sub-healthy state when effective health maintenance is not understood. Fortunately sub-healthy people can become healthier, depending on how well they care for themselves.

In China 'Qi balanced wellbeing' has been understood by people for millennia. In contrast, western cultures are broadly unaware of the issues surrounding sub-healthy conditions, indeed many people only ever think about supplementing their diets when they are unwell. In fact, 60% of one's health and life span lies in your hands; determined by the diet, supplement and lifestyle choices you make.

TIENS' founding mission is to deliver balanced health around the globe: to you, your family and your friends.

A BACKGROUND TO CHINESE MEDICINE AND DIETETICS

Traditional Chinese culture offered the people of ancient China a unique understanding of the processes of life, health and disease. The methods used to fight disease have evolved over 5,000 years into a comprehensive system of medicine, which is now known as traditional Chinese medicine and is a fundamental part of Chinese culture.

The foundation of Chinese dietetics (nutrition) lies intraditional Chinese medicine and the overall concept of yin and yang.

The yin-yang theory assumes that Qi is the origin of all things, and before creation there was chaos. (Qi is often translated in the western world as life energy, life force or energy flow. The literal translation is breath or air). In the time before creation it was said that movement and change caused chaos to divide into yin and yang. The contrasting yet complementary relationship between yin and yang is present in all things. The natural world is shaped by it in seeming opposites such as active and passive, day and night, hot and cold, masculine and feminine. Yin represents relative calm, downward movement, cold and darkness, and is introverted. The extroverted Yang represents itself through powerful, upward movement, heat and light.

The proportion of yin and yang that surrounds us is relative, not absolute or fixed and under certain conditions the proportion can reverse and transform. Yin and Yang are in a constant exchange between mutual interference and restriction, interaction and dynamic balance. If the fluctuations of yin and yang are too strong, the dynamic balance is disturbed. In nature, the loss of balance manifests as some form of natural disaster.

In humans, an excess of yin leads to congestions, which after time manifest as mood disorders or disease. A yang excess can lead to aggressive behaviour, followed by periods of low energy and the need to sleep. It is therefore believed that a harmonious balance of these energies will promote human health.

UNDERSTANDING THE HEALTH BALANCE

HEALTHY LIVING

The rapid progress in science and technology has led to fundamental changes in our perception of health and preservation of it.

In order to stay healthy today, it is no longer enough to just prevent disease and injury. It's about a holistic approach, integrating physical, mental and emotional well-being in order to achieve true quality of life.

TIENS products are designed to help restore the harmonious balance of the body. In this brochure you will find lots of helpful information about individual nutrients, vitamins, minerals, antioxidants and their potential impact on health, weight and well-being.

We wish you all the best!

PURIFICATION

UNDERSTANDING HEALTH BALANCE

ACCORDING TO TRADITIONAL
CHINESE HEALTH CARE CULTURE
THERE ARE THE THREE

COMPONENTS OF BALANCE:-

- PURIFICATION
- REPLENISHING
- STRENGTHENING

THE FIRST STEP TO HEALTH IS PURIFICATION OR RIDDING THE BODY OF TOXINS. THE HUMAN BODY OFTEN HAS TO COPE WITH UNHEALTHY DIETS, PHYSICAL AND EMOTIONAL STRESS, ENVIRONMENTAL POLLUTANTS, AND DIFFERENT CLIMATES. THESE CAN ALL HAVE THE EFFECT OF INCREASING TOXINS IN OUR BODY, SUCH AS EXCESSIVE CHOLESTEROL, FATS, PRESERVATIVES AND ARTIFICIAL PIGMENTS, WHICH CAN AFFECT VITAL ORGANS.

Modern lifestyles mean that sometimes we consume too much cholesterol, too little fruit and vegetables and not enough exercise. This can lead to harmful substances being deposited in the blood vessels, which over time, can harden thus narrowing blood vessels and potentially inducing hypertension. Environmental pollution such as car exhaust fumes, heavy metals, computer and cell phone radiation are also other contaminants symptomatic of contemporary living. Purification is designed to remove toxins from the digestive tract, blood vessels, lungs, skin and other channels so that organs can function normally again. Your TIENS' representative can help devise a personal plan to meet your nutritional needs and the first part of your plan would focus on helping cleanse your body of any harmful substances.

REPLENISHING

BALANCED NUTRITION HELPS REGULATE THE BODY'S SYSTEM JUST LIKE A MACHINE NEEDS REGULAR MAINTENANCE TO RUN SMOOTHLY AND PROLONG ITS LIFE. BOTH CHINESE AND WESTERN HEALTH CARE AGREE ON THE IMPORTANCE OF BALANCED NUTRITION IN THE BODY TO KEEP IT HEALTHY AND ABLE TO DEFEND ITSELF AGAINST ILLNESS, SUB-HEALTH AND THE EARLY ONSET OF AGEING.

Traditional Chinese health care maintains that when the body is properly assigned with the five elements in the cosmos, it will be balanced and stay healthy. If it's out of balance, a major organ can become dysfunctional. The digestive system, circulatory system, respiratory system, urinary and endocrine system all interact with each other. One organ alone cannot perform all body functions and all must act in synergy to maintain harmony. If one organ dysfunctions, others will be affected either directly or indirectly.

STRENGTHENING

BESIDES DETOXIFICATION AND BALANCING NUTRITION, IT'S ALSO ABOUT SUPPLYING THE BODY WITH SUPPLEMENTS THAT ENCOURAGE YIN AND YANG TO THRIVE, THUS STRENGTHENING THE IMMUNE SYSTEM AND ACTIVATING SELF-HEALING POWERS.

It is important to remember that nutritional supplements are not a replacement for a varied balanced diet and exercise. TIENS' products are based on a combination of ancient Chinese wisdom and 21st century nutrition technology. Your TIENS' supplements can help you sleep better and derive optimum benefit from the foods you consume, as well as find greater energy levels for exercise and manage the impact of stress more effectively.

CHITOSAN PLUS CAPSULES

Chitosan is a naturally occurring substance, that in a plant is chemically similar to cellulose. Unlike regular plant bre, chitosan has the ability to significantly absorb and bind fat in the digestive tract, thus preventing fat absorption. Additionally, chitosan can also produce a bulking effect that increases satiety.

Chitosan acts as a soluble bre in the acidic environment of the stomach and interacts with dietary fats. As it goes through the small intestine, it becomes insoluble and forms a gel-like complex. This makes the intestine less acidic, as chitosan binds with fats and bile acids to form a gel-like complex, leaving the fat indigestible.

This insoluble complex then passes undigested through the large intestine and is then naturally eliminated. Part of its effectiveness is based on the fact that bio adhesive chitosan carries a positive charge, which enables binding with the negatively charged surfaces of fatty and bile acids. A decrease in bile activity also indirectly reduces fat absorption.

Additional Benefits Vegetarian friendly: Tiens Chitosan Plus is a chitosan obtained from non-animal sources and is suitable for vegetarians. It is superior to common chitosan sourced from crustacean shells, due to an increased absorption rate.

Ingredients per capsule: Brown Rice Flour 340 mg Vegetable Chitosan Powder 150 mg Magnesium Stearate (veg.) 5mg

Zinc is fundamental to the proper function of the immune system, and plays a pivotal role in the body's growth and energy-producing processes. Zinc deficiency impacts human growth, protein synthesis and can jeopardise natural resistance.

Daily intake of Zinc is essential to maintain a steady state, as the body has no specialised zinc storage system.

Each capsule of Tiens Zinc Plus contains 130 mg of Zinc and helps to replenish normal zinc levels. Zinc is involved in numerous aspects of cellular metabolism, and is necessary in the catalytic activity of approximately 100 enzymes, balancing interactions between essential trace elements in the body.
